THE action taken by the Chamber of Commerce, in writing to Bombay to ask whether the allegation made by Whittaker's Almanac to the effect that the Government of India had discontinued all quarantine restrictions is correct, is sure to recommend itself to the whole mercantile public. Considering that India is the country which, ever since 1817, bas suffered from cholera more constantly than any other country in the world, that all the talent of the medical world has studied the cholcra question there, and that the Inian Government is avowedly better advised on the subject than any other Government in existence, it stands to reason that the discontinuance of quarantine measures on naturally have the effect of discouraging elsewhere those irritating because useless attempts at quarantine, which have been for some years past condemned by public opinion which the Chamber of Commerce has transmitted to Bombay to be answered, but, of closely printed matter, to which reference is pending the receipt of the early reply looked for, we may put before our readers what is July, 1866. Since that time we have been Countries embraced within the scope of the known here in Hongkong regarding the position taken by the Indian Government suffered from a succession of epidemics bedisease (cholera) which is the only pretext of these historical observations, the scientific for quarantine measures at the present day. When Professor HALLIER, of Jena, publish-

M. CUNINGHAM were sent to India to examine the alleged facts and to study the whole subject on the spot. They were soon in a position to disprove the learned botanist's theory, but remained in India in the service of the Government in official positions which gave them continuous opportunities to study the of infecting any healthy person, but that Colony yesterday. cholera problem in prisons and armies and among the multitudinous populations of our Indian Empire. Dr. Cuningham is, so far as we know, at present in the service of the lings for a length of time independently of Indian Government as Sanitary Commissioner, and he is now universally acknowledged, next to the Munich Professor, von PETTENEOFER, to be the most competent authority in the whole scientific world as regards the subject of cholera. In 1883, when cholera—which had appeared in Europe for the first time in 1822 slightly, and by in 1830, 1865 and 1873 to a more formidable on the physical character of the soil Imperial German Government commissioned the soil undergoes in the course of India to study the cholera problem there. tended to indicate that the real germ of to say, the cause by which the disease from cholera is a living bacillus, which has the being epidemic becomes epichthonic, is coning, and that cholera is caused by the growth animal poison which produces the well known entirely unknown that no one can say how it

It is him on points of minor importance. As to the history of cholera, there i is now general agreement in the scientific cholera is native in India and partiendemic, namely in the deltas of the Gunges and Brahmaputra, and in the district of Cuttack, that is to say, in a tract of country well nigh level, where rice is extensively cultivated and the subsoil is constantly moist. conveyed to the Civil Hospital, where he died at As to the history of cholera, scientists are 9 p.m. the same day. generally agreed that it apread in successive waves from Jessore, near Calcutta, all over India and Ceylon (1817-1819) following

THE IRISH CRIMES ACT. LONDON, 2nd May. In the House of Commons to-night Healy moved that the first clause of the Crimos bill be so amended as to indicate clearly to what portion of Ireland it would be applicable. He suggested that the words "problaimed districts" be omitted, and that Kerry, Lindonderry, and Belfast be inserted in their stead Balfour, Chief Secretary for Iraland, declined

Ireland where the prevalence of crime justified such action. 🚉 🕾 Mr. Healy then asked if blood-stained Belfast, where troops had been shot and policemen murdered, was to go free, while the miserable districts in the southwest were to be punished. JUBILEE ARRANGEMENTS in every month.

LONDON, 30th April. The Royal Institute of Painters in Water Colours intend to make their jubilee costume ball, to be held at Princess Hall on May 16th, a unique and memorable event. The dresses are to be exclusively historical, and one of the principal features will be a series of tableaux vivants representing incidents in the reign of England's former queens. Another feature of special intorost will be a minuet, which is to be danced by artists and their wives. Royalty will be well represented and the occasion is certain to gather together almost everybody in the artistic and fashionable world.

LONDON, 2nd May. There is to be a choir of nearly 250 voices at the jubilee thanksgiving service in Westminster Abbay, the singers to be placed in galleries on each side of the chancel. In the first from the organ loft there will be the whole of the Abbey boys' choir, including a voluntary contingent, choirs from St. Paul's athedral, St. George's Chapel, Windsor, and the Chapels Royal of St. James and Whitehall, and boys declared that neither be nor his companions what the declared that neither be nor his companions what the declared that neither be nor his companions what the declared that neither be nor his companions what the declared that neither be nor his companions what the declared that neither he nor his companions what the declared that neither he nor his companions what the declared that neither he nor his companions what the declared that neither he nor his companions what the declared that neither he nor his companions what the declared that neither he nor his companions what the declared that neither he nor his companions what the declared that neither he nor his companions what the declared that neither he need to be not his companions where the neither he need to be not his companions where the neither he need to be not he need to be not here. from the Temple Church, Lincoln's Inn Chapel and All Sunts, as well as numerous special singers who are willing to attend. The Queen; is to sit in the coronation chair with the royalties and great officers around her, and behind her, in one transept, will be the members of the House of Lords, and in the other the members of the House of Commons, placed on tiers of seats so that her Majesty will have a High Court of Parliament on both sides, and she will be in full view of every legislator. Accommodation is to be provided in the transepts for those privy counsellors who are neither paers nor members of the House of Commons.

LONDON, 3rd May. Most of the royalties from abroad will be the Queen's guests at Buckingham Palaco during their stay in London, but except the near relatives from Germany none will remain for more than inside of a week. The King and Queen of Denmark are to be guests of the Prince and Princess of Wales at Marlborough House, as well as the King of Greece. The representatives of the Court of St. Petersburg will stay at Clarence House with the Duke and Duchess of Edin. burgh. None of the foreign royalty will stay at Windsor. They are to accompany Her Majesty there on the afternoon of Wednesday, June 22nd, as her return to the castle is to be an affair of much state and ceramony. There will be a grand banquet at the castle in the evening in St. George's Hall, and all the guests will return to London afterwards.

The two towns last named are in the centre of the only coal district in South Americe developed to any degree. The Argentine Republic has already granted a concession for a road from Bahia Blanca to the boundary of operation for some time. Buenos Ayres and more alive are entertained. Bahia Blanca have been connected by rail for several years. These lines will open up new districts in a way that will destroy the coal monopoly existing there so many years and also ruin the English coal trade on the east coast.

The navy regulations require that in all cases of accident a board of inquiry shall be convened at the scene of the accident and an investigation made. Admiral Chandler explains his failure to do this by saying that there were not enough ranking officers at the station to constitute such a board, but the true reason seems to be on account of the bad blood between them, as junior officers can sit on a board of inquiry in the absence of ranking officers. These boards have no power to pass sentence, and can go no further than to ascertain all the facts.
